BAHC's phony psychologist had served jail time in Ohio

'Dr.' Charles Gill is gone, but questions remain

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Charles D.H. Gill Jr. of the Bailey Road in Bethel was arrested last Tuesday on 16 counts of unlawful practice, a Class E misdemeanor, and one Class B felony charge of theft by deception.

He is currently being held in the Oxford County Jail, awaiting a probable grand jury hearing in January. His bail has been set at $150,000.

Gill, 58, had worked from February until last month as a clinical psychologist and director of the Human Services Division at the Bethel Area Health Center.

But Gill has no degrees in psychology or any other mental health field (as far as authorities have been able to determine) and he is not licensed to practice as a mental health professional in Maine.

But practice he did. For ten months Gill conducted substance abuse counseling, marriage counseling and other therapy at the BAHC. He also served for three weeks (through the BAHC) as a clinical consultant to National Training Laboratories.

Wendy Gray, president of the BAHC board of trustees, estimates Gill saw "four dozen or so" patients at the health center.

Among Gill's patients were Dr.

CHARLES D. H. GILL JR.

Medicaid patients, who had a total of 57 sessions with him at the health center. The patients were charged $110 for each visit, with $71 being billed back to Medicaid.

The health center paid Gill $23,411 for his work here. During the same period, he was also practicing from a private office in Fryburg, where he had allegedly billed out his clients as a doctor of psychology.

The 16 misdemeanor charges against Gill stem from the visits of his Medicaid patients. The felony charge, from the money paid him by the health center.

A long record

But if Gill didn't have credentials or a license, he certainly did have a record.

According to Ohio authorities, Gill had twice been convicted in that state of practicing psychology without a license, and he was sentenced there to 18 months in prison on that charge.

Gill also had a criminal record in Maine. At the time of his arrest last week he faced two outstanding Knox County warrants from 1988, charging operation of a motor vehicle after suspension and violation of probation.

Those charges stemmed from an earlier drunk driving conviction.

Diplomatic immunity?

In 1988, when Gill was facing the drunk driving charge, a mailgram arrived at the Knox County district attorney's office claiming Gill was a "diplomatic representative of Switzerland in the affairs of the World Health Organization in New

Tire dump

DEP again threatening to close gate

By WENDY HANSCOM

"This is it."

Michael Parker, environmental specialist for the Department of Environmental Protection, said it's all over for Peter and Susan Gordon's tire dump.

Of course Parker and DEP officials have said the same thing in the past and nothing has happened.

But this time, Parker said, "at this point I have no other course of action but to refer this to the Attorney General's office for legal action. We'll seek a permanent injunction to prevent any more tires from coming into the facility. We'll also be seeking to have the judge order them to remove tires. There are (DEP officials) higher up involved and I don't think it will drag on."

The Gordon's facility, which received a DEP license in 1991 as a recycling facility, has been repeatedly cited for having too many stored tires.

DEP's latest estimate puts about 1.7 million tires at the Rabbit Road site.

The Gordons' hope of eventually finding a market for the scrap rubber now appears to have faded. Susan Gordon told DEP and town officials in September the business was just barely getting by with the facility continuing to accept tires from a few customers.

In September DEP officials gave the couple three months to come up with a plan to move some of the

Gilbert to open No. Waterford mill

By MICHAEL DANIELS

DLG Sawmill & Dowel Company has announced that it will open a new sawmill in North Waterford in January.

The mill will produce squares and dowels that will then be processed into millwork and millwork products by Gilbert Manufacturing of Locke Mills.

The new mill will also sell its product to other manufacturers according to Diane Gilbert, who owns both DLG and Gilbert Manufacturing.

The North Waterford mill will employ 10 to 12 people and will be capable of processing 20,000 board feet of wood in an eight-hour shift, Gilbert said.

DLG is very happy to be creating an economic opportunity here in Oxford County, Gilbert said, and is hopeful of adding employees as time goes on. Our investment to create a high-speed, automated operation will mean that the company will be in a position to compete and grow.

DLG's project has been made possible through the assistance of the Oxford Hills Area Development Council and the Small Business Administration. Additional financing was made available through the efforts of Penobscot Federal Savings Bank.

Gilbert's Locke Mills facility currently employs more than 75 people, according to office manager Carol Whitman.

Woodstock

Couple wants town to get off the pot on uphill neighbors' septic situation

By WENDY HANSCOM

A Woodstock couple is angry that their neighbors up the hill are still living in a trailer with no septic system.

Woodstock officials say they plan to continue to press Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pratt of Dudley Road East to install the system, and may end up seeking a court order.

But the Pratt's only neighbors say the town isn't moving fast enough to deal with a problem created more than a year ago.

The Pratt's were issued a permit last fall to set up a trailer and live in it with a porta-potty on site until the septic system was installed, according to town manager Vern Maxfield.

The trailer was inhabited on and off during the past year, Maxfield said, but by the end of the summer the Pratt's had moved in permanently.

In mid-November, selectmen notified the Pratt's they had 30 days to install a septic system or face court action.

The thirty days are up this week.

Maxfield said, and the Pratt's haven't started the work.

The Pratt's neighbors, Floyd and Marybelle Hurd, are annoyed that the town hasn't demanded quicker action.

The Hurd's are concerned their water supply will be contaminated by improperly disposed waste. The Hurd's are about 100 yards downhill from the Pratt's. A large ledge runs through most of the area where the two trailers are located.

Local X-C ski areas open

Sunday's storm blanketed the Bethel area with about six inches of snow, enough for three local cross-country centers to open for the season.

There's skiing daily on the Bethel Inn's trails and golf course. The inn will also offer sleigh rides Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday River Cross-Country Center has about 5 kilometers of trails open. The center will host a kick-sled demonstration Saturday. Small children can ride along in kicksleds as their parents ski.

Carter's Cross Country Center on the Intervale Road expects to have 5 to 10 kilometers of trails groomed and ready by the weekend. Carter's will be open weekends until Christmas. Carter's Oxford ski trails are now open daily.

BE SURE BEFORE YOU BUY A PET

To the Editor:

As Christmas approaches I am reminded of the saga of the chained dog, who, as a puppy, was loved and played with and allowed in the house, but as the puppy grew older, less time was spent with him and he was chained to a dog house in the back yard. The only time anyone came near was to feed and water him.

Christmas is traditionally a time when people buy puppies and kittens as gifts. I urge you to consider all the ins and outs of owning a pet. They require a lot of time and attention, not to mention the cost of shots, spaying or neutering and food. They get sick just like people and sometimes require costly medical attention. Please don't make this decision without a lot of careful thought. The animal shelters are full of unwanted and uncared-for pets.

On the other hand, if you are a serious animal lover, you can find no truer friend than a dog or a cat. They are loyal until the end. When I open my door at the end of a long day, I am greeted by four wagging tails and squeals of delight.

And when the time comes to say good-bye to your lifelong friend, have the courage to stay until the end. Animals have feelings. They are not disposable like some old piece of furniture that you throw away when you're sick of it or it's worn out. They would do it for you.

This Christmas season, stop and think about "All Creatures Great and Small" and give them the love and attention they need and deserve. You will be richly rewarded.

SORRY

To the Editor:

Mr. Billings did call me and I informed him that I no longer was in charge of trail work in the area and was not personally involved in the work performed on that section of the trail. I also informed him that I would pass on the information to the proper people, which I did at the next meeting. He also informed me that he was pleased by the work that was done.

This, however, is no excuse for not getting in touch with him and asking permission. I apologize for the people who didn't contact him. Sorry.

KEEP BETHEL CHRISTIAN

To the Editor:

In your Nov. 16 issue you published a letter to the editor from Rev. John Grant in which he expressed concern regarding the sale of alcoholic beverages on the same premises as a recreation center for young people. He stated that the two just do not go together. In the Nov. 23 issue, another letter to the editor took exception to Rev. Grant's position. This letter stated that alcohol was a "legal and even noble beverage" and "prevalent in many homes today, homes that actually have children living in them!"

I agree with Rev. Grant. There are very few instances of "responsible use of alcohol." The Bible clearly teaches that the most effective way to avoid sin is to flee from it. By keeping the sale of alcohol separate from the place where our young people play will serve to keep it from their minds. The saying, "out of sight out of mind," applies here as in many instances.

The viewpoint expressed in the Nov. 23 letter is, unfortunately, prevalent in our society today. It is easier to turn our heads to small indiscretions than it is to stand up and speak out against them. Bethel is at a transition point and now is the correct time for all who believe in sound Christian principles to stand up and speak out. We can either let Bethel go the way of the World, or we can take control and make it a preferred place for those who enjoy the warmth of "good country folk well schooled in Christian principles." This doesn't mean that Bethel doesn't grow, or change, but it means that the change is guided by principle and value to the community. I have a keen interest in Bethel. I lived my childhood there, and plan to spend a lot of my retirement years in Bethel, plus I have a lot of family living in the area.

In planning for a safe haven for young people, we should keep our ethical values pure, and our plans should provide for a temptation-free atmosphere. The sale of alcoholic beverages in that safe haven, although legal and acceptable in our society, would not meet that standard.

I would like to correct one thing stated in the Nov. 23 letter. Alcohol has not been around since before the religion that Rev. Grant preaches. I have heard Rev. Grant preach and he preaches Jesus Christ. And, Jesus Christ was around since before time. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. . . . And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth)." In 1:1 and 1:14.

Jim Murphy
Tullahoma, Tenn.

"IT WAS LIKE THIS"--Chuck Graul of Boston explains to Oxford County Deputy Dane Tripp how Graul's van came to end up on its side and down an embankment on Merryfield Hill -- instead of upright in a parking lot at Sunday River. Graul and his brother Chris were headed to the Newry ski area Sunday morning to enjoy the fresh snow, but instead fell victim to the slippery conditions just east of Bryant Pond. Fortunately, both of the would-be skiers were wearing seat belts and escaped without injury. "The trouble we have with skiers," said Deputy Tripp (not necessarily in regard to this accident), "is that they drive like they think the snow will melt before they get there."

But Arthur Gilbert, who served as West Bethel postmaster from 1969 to 1982, said postal officials shouldn't be influenced by what may happen in Bethel.

"It's going to make quite an inconvenience for 88 people," Gilbert said. "They're not going to have the service they have now. Service is what the Postal Service is supposed to be in existence for. That's all they've got to sell."

The Postal Service plans to mail out questionnaires next month, asking West Bethel customers how often they use the Post Office, where they go to shop and if they frequently pass by any other post offices.

If the preliminary study shows it would make sense to close down the West Bethel office, a formal proposal will be made and customers will be given a chance to comment. Postal officials in Washington make the final decision, which may be appealed.

New Bethel office top priority

Beecher said a new post office facility for Bethel is a top priority, but the postal service had not set a timetable yet.

"Bethel is a priority," Beecher said. "We're in the downtown with limited parking in a small, old building. We need to be in an area that makes sense to us as well as the community so we can provide the services needed."

Beecher said it's unlikely the new post office will be located in the heart of the Bethel village.

"Typically we have not gone right back downtown," he said. "It's not usually feasible to find a big enough space, with parking and accessibility for customers and postal personnel coming and going."

Postal service officials will come to town and look for an appropriate area for a new facility, Beecher said. The officials will take into consideration the town's comprehensive plan and where development is currently occurring.

When asked if the Bethel Station site might be an appropriate place, Beecher said he was aware of the development, but that postal officials haven't begun to seriously look at properties in Bethel.

Acquiring land or property for a post office is a competitive bid process, he said, and station developers could take part in that process.

Bethel officials will be kept informed on the location selection process, Beecher said, but public meetings or hearings on proposed new post office locations are not usually held.

Bethel Town Office

From the

I was recently reminded that this column was a good tool for maintaining a link between the town government and the citizens of Bethel. There is a lot for us to talk about. Today, I will cover concerns of winter.

Sand is available for private individual use of citizens of Bethel, in quantities of not more than two five-gallon buckets. The road crew will keep a pile of sand for private individual use at the Cross Street site. Please do not come to the Airport Industrial Park location for your individual sand allotments. Construction is still ongoing, and it is an additional hazard to have people driving in and around the area.

Those who buy commercial quantities should of course come to the new building for loading. If you are interested in purchasing commercial quantities, please stop in or call the town office for an order form.

The overnight parking ban is now in effect. Please do not leave your car on the street between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m. If you have overnight guests, please warn them about the ban. It reflects badly on the town to have guests receive parking tickets, or even worse, get their vehicles towed away while they sleep.

As usual, the crew will be removing snow as necessary. For safety's sake, such work is scheduled for overnight. We recognize this is a major annoyance to people trying to sleep in the downtown area and will work as quickly as possible. This year, the snow thrower has been overhauled. We hope that by bringing that long unused piece of equipment back into service the snow removal process will go faster, but it can only be used for dry snow with no ice. For instance, the first removal job, done this week, was done with the bucket loader.

The plowing of snow from driveways and parking lots across town roads is illegal and dangerous. Please refrain from such a practice. The town crew has been instructed to notify the police of any offenders. And please keep in mind when you clear your drive and walk that if the road shoulders haven't been winged back yet, the plow truck will return and is bound to get snow in your cleared area.

I expect we will have another beautiful winter with travel kept safe by the hard work of the town and state road crews. Your patience and good humor will be appreciated.

Maine Adopts Ear Whisper Voting

By MIKE BROWN

Equal political divisions, like a playground seesaw, can easily go either way. That was the teeter factor in the Maine Legislature last week.

There are those idealists and political nymphs who believe that because the legislature is only one vote away from incredible metamorphose parity, that conciliation and bi-partisanship is the new cocoon of the day.

No way, Jose. The Republicans have been so long up in the peanut gallery of state politics that their triumphant march to the main floor arena via the Senate chamber has been sort of a culture shock to the long suffering pachyderms, who have very long memories.

They now want their pound of hay, but they came up three bales short in joint convention last week when the Democrats swept clean a slate of constitutional officers. It was close and there were some Republican defectors. Who were the scamps? It was a secret vote.

The first partisan crises will probably write the session melody, although nobody seems to admit it except the term limiters who will be terminated in two years.

The crises issue was whether an ill member, Rep. Mona Hale, a stout Democrat, could vote absentee. Clearly partisan, the absentee vote could have very possibly won constitutional offices for the D's -- lose for the R's. It has never been done in 174 years of the legislative history of Maine, this allowable absentee voting in joint convention. But the D's, led by former Speaker John Marlin, who snowed the congregation with his Eagle Lake constitutional pronouncements, apparently convinced Jill Goldthwait, the legislature's only independent, to vote on the Democratic side.

The score: D's three, Jill one, R's zero. Not only did the Maine Legislature adopt a new tablet from the mountain on The Word according to John, it wasn't even chiseled. The absentee vote preference was orally passed by an ear whisper to the House majority leader, Mr. Jacques, who later transcribed the absentee ether into hard copy.

It was never explained by Mr. Jacques or any other favored Democrat why Rep. Mona Hale, who attended the morning session and was sworn to office (but left shortly by ambulance), could not have at least scribbled something more substantial than a whisper vote in her majority leader's ear.

The Republicans were furious, of course. In fact, they had voted in caucus that if Rep. Hale was to vote absentee, it must be a written ballot. Luckily for constitutional scholars, Justice John Martin did not have to rule on that one, having already established oral case history. (Imagine the legislature vested with pocketfuls of whisper absentee votes!)

The Republicans in caucus before the joint convention were muddled and confused. Hardliners were led by Sen. Dana Hanley, who has quickly assumed Newt Gingrich stature by giving no quarter and no change to the Democrats who kept the R's in the closet (literally) for decades.

House leader Walt Whitcomb, unaccustomed to a crowd, tried to get some kind of caucus consensus considering the R's had held up the joint session for an hour. Senate President Jeff Butland, unaccustomed to swallowtails, was itchy.

It didn't help caucus harmony very much when the lawyers in the elephant herd like Peter Mills, David Ott and Joe Carleton began offering conflicting constitutional critiques.

But the good Republicans took what they had, rode into battle, and lost by a horseshoe nail.

Fortunately for Mainers, the legislature has recessed until January to sort things out like their duty to God, constitution and state. But with an independent governor on board, can state government wear a three-cornered hat any better than a two-cornered one as we have just witnessed?

Maine Citizens may get three-blocked.

It could not have been more lovely and was much appreciated."

Deposition taken in Upton law suit

UPTON--Upton state school agent Ronald Jenkins and the town's School Committee will meet today (Wednesday) for depositions in a pending lawsuit against the committee. Robert Dapalito filed the lawsuit claiming he had been given a contract to transport Upton students to Bethel schools, but the job was later awarded to SAD44. Jenkins, who is also SAD44 superintendent, said the board approved Dapalito's bid on March 10, but the next day rescinded the vote and decided to go with SAD44 buses. No official contract to Dapalito was ever issued or signed by the school committee, Jenkins said.

Greenwood seasonal home burns

GREENWOOD--The State Fire Marshal's Office is investigating a fire that destroyed a large, vacant seasonal home Sunday, Dec. 3 near Patch Mountain. The two-story building off the Hayes Road burned to the ground before Norway firefighters arrived. Norway's fire department responded to the call because it was first thought to be on Shedd Road in Norway. The house is owned by three Massachusetts contractors.

Water District meeting tonight

ANDOVER--The town's Water District will hold a public meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the Town Hall. The meeting will be to consider approving a $296,500 bond-anticipation note, according to district director Hal Frazier. The note would provide interim financing for the development and construction of a new water source for the district. The district received approval of a $296,500 loan and a $532,000 grant in November from the Farmers Home Administration.

Workers may use van pools

BETHEL--Western Maine Transportation Service Inc./Pine Tree Transit may use its vans to transport manufacturing and service industry employees to work in Oxford, Androscoggin and Franklin counties. Plans for a feasibility study to be done by the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments were presented to the company's board of directors at its quarterly meeting. A company official said Lewiston-Auburn, Farmington, Mexico, Livermore Falls and Jay may be suitable for the service.

Newry looking at pay-per-bag

NEWRY--Sigmund Sysko, the town's Solid Waste Committee chairman, is researching pay-per-bag disposal systems. The town will spend about $117,000 on waste disposal this year, according to Sysko. Changing to pay-per-bag would encourage more people to recycle, Sysko said, and shift the burden of disposing of waste to those who generate the most trash.

West Paris stolen car recovered

WEST PARIS--A 1983 blue Crown Victoria stolen recently from a West Paris driveway was found last week in a sand pit off High Street in South Paris. The car was stolen the same night as a rash of thefts from cars was reported in West Paris. Some of the property taken from the burglarized cars was found inside the stolen vehicle and nearby, according to police. Police are still investigating the theft.

Growth council slogan/logo contest

SOUTH PARIS--The Growth Council of Oxford Hills will conduct a contest for a logo and slogan to be used in a marketing campaign to promote the Oxford Hills. The winning logo and slogan entries will each be awarded a $100 gift certificate from the Oxford Wal-Mart. Runner-ups will receive $25 gift certificates. The winners will be announced on Jan. 20. The entry deadline is Jan. 13. Entries can be mailed to Growth Council of Oxford Hills, 166 Main Street, South Paris, Maine, 04281. For additional information call 743-8830.

Rumford deals with fires and a bomb

RUMFORD--Officials here are looking for a connection between two recent fires and a homemade bomb found at a Rumford residence last week. The top floor of a Washington Street house burned last Tuesday, and a church bus on York Street was destroyed Friday. Thursday afternoon a Penobscot Street man reported finding a homemade Molotov cocktail next to a car at his residence. A police detective said suspects in the three incidents are different people but there may be a connection between them. Two men have already been charged in connection with the bus fire. Police also say the house fire may have been arson. "We're still the possibility (that the three incidents are linked)," said detective Wayne Gallant. "At this point we're not sure. Right now there are different individuals involved and I don't know if they're getting their (ideas to start fires) from the same place."

Indians want casino near Sugarloaf

CARRABASSETT VALLEY--The new governor of the state's Penobscot Indian Nation told officials here last week that the nation hopes to someday build a gambling casino on Route 27. The tribe is based in Old Town, and plans to sell most of its 24,000 acres of land in Carrabasset Valley, according to tribal Gov. Richard Hamilton. The nation owns about half the land in the valley, according to Town manager William Gilmore. Near the area's airport is the likely spot, Hamilton said. The casino would have to be approved by the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, he said.

Drunk driving laws could get tougher

AUGUSTA--Maine Secretary of State Bill Diamond is urging the new Legislature to approve tougher OUI laws, including a "zero tolerance" standard for underage drivers. The law would eliminate the existing OUI law that sets a 0.02 percent blood-alcohol content as the legal limit for minor drivers. Diamond said the current law sends a mixed message to teens, because state law prohibits alcohol use by people under 21. "It's illegal for minors to drink anyway," Diamond said, "so why be confused by the .02." Another recommendation in his proposal is reducing Maine's legal blood-alcohol limit for adult drivers from 0.08 to 0.05.

From the Bethel Police log: On the watch for half dollars

Gorham, N.H. police asked Bethel police last week to warn stores to be on the lookout for 50-cent pieces. A large amount of the coins were stolen recently in a Gorham, N.H. burglary.

Sunday, Dec. 11

At 10:02 p.m. following a routine traffic stop, police charged Joshua Chamberlin, 18, of Bryant Pond with operating a motor vehicle after license suspension.

Saturday, Dec. 10

At 4:30 p.m. a Main Street woman complained that an idling car was blocking her driveway.

At 11:30 p.m. a West Bethel man told police he had been assaulted in his home by another West Bethel man. He told police he did not want to press charges, but was upset over the incident. He turned over a rifle and its ammunition to police for safekeeping, according to the report.

Thursday, Dec. 8

At 2:05 p.m. Telstar High School's principal asked police if interviewing a student, thought to have been involved with setting a fire in a school locker (see page 3), would interfere with the police investigation. Police told him no.

Accidents

Dec. 10 at 10:52 a.m. Preston Noyes, 20, of Bryant Pond lost control of his vehicle on the Chandler Hill Road and hit a tree. Damage to the 1982 Ford was estimated at $1,500.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

York City," and as such was entitled to diplomatic immunity.

The mailgram purported to be from George Schultz, who was then the U.S. Secretary of State.

Last week law enforcement officials, acting on a complaint from a relative of one of Gill's patients, seized papers and computer records at Gill's residence in Bethel and office in Fryeburg.

They found further Swiss connections, including two passports: one claiming Gill was born in the United States, the other that he was born in Switzerland.

There was also a 1986 bank statement showing Gill had $748,200 on deposit in a Swiss bank.

Authorities don't know if the bank statement is authentic.

Gill's case is now being reviewed by the Oxford County district attorney's office, the Maine attorney general's office, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"We've got a ton of investigating to do," said Joseph O'Connor, an Oxford County assistant district attorney.

"We were conned"

Wherever the state and federal investigation leads, there are clearly some local questions that remain to be answered.

The first is obvious: How could

Septic

Hurd said he's frustrated with how long the town has let the Pratts live in the trailer with no outhouse, porta-potty or any other waste disposal system. He said he has no axe to grind with the Pratts, but he doesn't want to worry about where their sewage is going, and how it might affect his and his wife's health.

In addition to being angry about the delay in installing proper sanitation, Hurd is concerned with the design of the Hurds' proposed septic system. He's worried it will be difficult for proper drainage due to the large ledge that runs under both properties.

The Pratts do have an approved plan for a septic system on file at the Town Office, and Maxfield said he planned to give Hurd a copy. Hurd went to last week's selectmen's meeting to complain about how the town is handling the problem, but he said later his reception was lukewarm at best.

"If I did something like this they'd stick it right to me," Hurd said. "(The selectmen should) either enforce the law or throw it out. I have a legal and legitimate concern. I'm concerned that if the septic system is not a well-built and designed system, I'll get human waste in my well. ... But the selectmen didn't give me any answers."

But Maxfield said that the town is dealing with the situation as quickly as possible.

A letter from the town's attorney went out to the Pratts Friday, Maxfield said. The letter asks the Pratts to notify the town if they plan to move out or to put in a waste disposal system.

If the Pratts remain on the property with no septic system, the town will pursue a court order for its installation, he said.

'I really want to reassure the community that we have the finest caliber of health professionals we have ever had.'

WENDE GRAY
President, BAHC Board of Trustees

an unlicensed, ex-con charlatan be allowed to treat patients here for nearly a year without anyone checking his credentials?

"We were conned," said Gray. "It's a small town and we tend to trust people."

George Larson, BAHC executive director, fired Gill on Nov. 22, but only after the pseudo psychiatrist had been seeing patients here since February.

Larson said he had repeatedly attempted to verify Gill's credentials, but Gill kept stalling and changing his story.

For example, Larson said, he learned on Sept. 12 that Gill was not licensed to practice in Maine under his own name, but Gill then said the license was under a corporate name.

Asked who at the BAHC was responsible for checking such professional credentials, Larson declined to answer.

"I don't want to say," he said, "but I'm taking the heat for it."

Gray was more forthcoming. Asked the same question, she replied: "George was."

Who will pay?

Gray also acknowledged that the health center may face an unknown financial liability arising from Gill's activities here.

There is the chance Medicaid or other third-party payers will demand refunds for money they paid for Gill's service.

Also, individual clients may attempt to recover their fees, or even consider lawsuits against the health center.

The BAHC is insured against such contingencies, Gray said, but it is not clear what effect, if any,

Gill's activities could have on the health center's insurance rates.

Larson said the health center staff and attorneys are currently "trying to assess" what the institution's financial exposure might be.

Gray assured The Citizen, and through the newspaper the community, that the remaining professional staff at the health center are both fully credentialed and highly qualified.

"I really want to reassure the community that we have the finest caliber of health professionals we have ever had," she said.

Consultant to NTL

One of Gill's other activities while in Bethel was to provide "clinical consultant support" for NTL trainers.

Such consultants are kept on call in case the emotional intensity of a workshop precipitates a psychiatric episode, said Kathi Schandeleier, NTL's Bethel manager.

NTL paid the BAHC $1,500 to have Gill on call for three weeks during the summer session. Schandeleier said, but fortunately there were no incidents requiring his consultation.

The BAHC contract, she said, "was NTL's first time in tapping into the services available in the Bethel area."

fires. But Parker said he never heard from the Gordons.

The Gordons will probably be given a court-order deadline to remove some of the tires, Parker said. There could be stiff penalties if they ignore a court order, he said.

"In the past when tire dump owners have defied a court order they've been put in jail," Parker said. "This move is a bigger stick to threaten them with."

Parker said he plans to visit the tire dump this week to inspect it and talk with the Gordons. He will then prepare his recommendations for the Attorney General's office, he said.

Marie Bartlett, Greenwood selectmen chair, said she's sure that a meeting in September between the Gordons, DEP officials, Greenwood's state senator and representative and town officials helped push the DEP into action.

Andover

By KAREN MCKAY

The Andover Water District is holding a public meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. at the town hall. The new well system and related financing will be discussed. All members are urged to attend.

The First Congregational Church's children from Sunday School will be giving a presentation as part of the 10 a.m. worship service on Sunday, Dec. 18.

The Calvary Congregational Church will hold their annual Sunday School Christmas program on Dec. 18 at 2 p.m.

The Andover Elementary School is congratulating first-grader Blake Conrad for being the Student of the Week for Nov. 28 to Dec. 2. The school's Christmas fund raiser was a great success. Thanks to all that were involved with the sponsorship of lights on the town common's Christmas tree, it is a beautiful reminder of the season.

The Andover Historical Society has 1995 calendars and note paper for sale--what a great gift idea. Please contact a member or Bev Swan at 392-4742 for more information.

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Aunt Nance,

It's an incredibly warm Sunday in December that finds me contemplating my computer screen and not the glorious mountains that surround me. In an attempt to encourage the opening of this epistle, I've been poring over the myriad magic books that accompanied the guide machine to see if I could extract and/or read the old letters contained on floppy disks of my past. Hidden somewhere within those black folds are notations that recall the stories and memories of our family and the events that will connect us until there is no one left to listen. But, who is me, I ran out of time before unlocking the doors of the Neville Secret Garden. I will continue without benefit of bytes from the old p.c. and will try again when time is not a constraint on my shoulder, or my 'mouse'!

Fortunately for me, I began to listen in earnest to the stories of family from an early age. I had the dubious good fortune to be sent away a lot to visit the relatives on both sides of the family. Though your brother Jack (my father) felt the pains of separation whenever one of his children was off on a visit, I'm sure that Helen (his wife, my mother) was probably relieved to be relieved of the care of one or two of the five of us, from time to time. And it was these time-to-times that offered incredible enrichment to sprites like me. I got to sit at the feet of the elders and learn their crafts and their lore and at the same time learn of the strength to be drawn from the bonds of family. I catalogued the connections to be found among the Fogarty and the Dunphys, the Beaton and the Nevilles, the Hallorans and the O'Hallorans, the McCarthys and the McGaffigans. I watched Aunt Nell's crooked fingers help her blind eyes to make a pie while she talked to me of her brother Tom (your father, the grandfather we never knew) and of her sisters. I watched those crooked hands knit a red riding hood for my doll while the gentle hands of her sister Anne coaxed my little fingers to crochet a shade pull... I crept along the dark hallway and into the welcoming presence of that dear Granddaddy Nell many an evening, after cousin Lib or a sterner Aunt Anne had tucked me in and insisted that I stay put. And the sense of connectedness grew.

Each time that we the little children got the chance to visit you and your sisters (our paternal aunts), we delighted in the visit and we learned from you. We saw you interact with each other; we learned how sisters care. As the third generation of Neville Girls, we got to see the first (Anne and Nell) and the second (you and Lull, Moll, Peg, and Isabel) in action, and we learned how sisters share...their joys, their sorrows, their milestones. We saw how to love, and help to raise each other's hopes, each other's expectations, each other's children. We watched you sisters spoil and adore your only brother; we did the same with our only brother. We saw you smile in the face of adversity, find courage to stand tall (sometimes on canes and crutches) in the face of tragedy, renew hope in the face of each loss.

As Donald and I set out on our own personal journey in the late fifties, we turned to you, Oh Nance-of-the-wonderful-Whoopie-Pies, for support and acceptance. With our firstborn in utero we journeyed to Connecticut to say hello and to connect anew. You greeted us with hugs, gave us encouragement and chocolate cake, and demonstrated the unconditional love that we would enjoy for many years. You smiled with pride as your two-year-old Kathy entertained us with her rendition of 'Yellow Bird,' a performance that we the about-to-be-parents thoroughly enjoyed.

Because of your interest in us and your sincerity in welcoming us, we established another connection that was to bind our next generation. Your Jane and Bob started their family just after we did, and our babies (the first in a long line of second cousins) brought us together. We have shared stories, space, vacations, hockey sticks, and even purple pajamas. That generation is now grown; and we are taking our rightful places in the velvet chairs of the 'Aunts,' in order to sit back and watch the mysterious rose of life unfurl yet another layer of petals.

For however long I am privileged to occupy a seat that you and the others have vacated, I will think of you often, dear Anna Neville Lennon. When I bake my own apple or whoopie pies, I will see your hands and the hands of Aunt Nell. When I teach my young listeners about being kind not just to some but to everyone, I will hear your gentle voice and the face that personified kindness. When I help my sisters with their wallpaper or their life passages, I will see Lull on a ladder or Moll on the road to visit a lonely granddaddy. I will always remember fondly your sister Peg who caused me to learn (at age 7) to braid my own braids because she just couldn't get them right... It was enough that she cared for us Neville Girls while our brother chose to be born! It was time to take charge of the braids! When I see a Bingo sign I will always be reminded of the Binghamania that drove your sisters Isabel and Mary, all over New York and elsewhere, and how they knew upon arrival at the cape where and when the next game was to be held! Whenever I play the piano or sing in the choir or paint or dig in the garden, I will see your brother Jack smiling his encouragement and your aunts Anne and Nell "whispering their own hope" at their own piano, which later became my piano.

When I create for your grandchildren and your great-grandchildren, I will be building a bridge for one more generation of kindness and caring that is directly connected to the hills of Ireland and England and Scotland, and the lush green fields of Cape Breton and P.E.I. And each time I look out beyond the hills that surround me I will see the faces of all of you who abide somewhere beyond those holy mountains. You and Al, Mary and Rob and Bob, Isabel and Al, Eleanor and Bill, and Tom and Billy, Peg and Jack and Johnny, Anne, Nell, your brother Jack and even Charlie (thanks to the kindness of your Jim) will remain etched on all of our cerebral computer disks, your faces, your voices, your spirits to be recalled at the touch of a mental button, at the sound of a laugh, the 'hmm' of a gentle voice, the observation of a time-worn hand, or the smile on a brand new face.

In a time and space that cries out for peace and love, we who sit in the velvet chairs of life will remember you, gentle Anna (aka Nance) as we attempt to emulate your goodness. We will teach the lesson of unconditional love to those whose lives we touch, accepting them without expectations, without judgments, without a desire to change them. We will stay connected and dependent on our family for strength as we accept new people and new experience with open minds. We will honor your memory with our goodness, acknowledge your life with our caring, and above all, we will remember YOU for your gentleness and your giving. Because of the time spent in your presence we have been enriched; we thank you for a long and wonderful visit!

C.B.
P.S. It's off to town for supplies. Lots happening in the next few days and weeks...a silver celebration for the Hostermans...a tree to trim and supper at church Sunday...and on the seventeenth, we the choir will lift our voices in praise and hope and joy...and then it will be Christmas and all the 'home for the holidays' that that entails.

The Woodstock Historical Society rewards those who take an interest in it. It brings together people, ideas, and treasures of the past. It teaches us about many wonderful things. Support this important organization and enjoy its benefits. Curator Larry Billings recently got a copy of the Collected Works of Edna St. Vincent Millay, an important Maine poet. The society points out that author Charles Dickens once wrote, "Let me remember how it used to be." The society pictures things as they used to be. The museum is a place of great interest for our area and anyone who wants to know about it.

On Sunday she attended the "Nutcracker" performance at Portland with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Estes, Debbie Millett, Elaine Newell and Linsey, and Burton Hathaway. Brian Millett, Mrs. Hathaway's great-grandson, was one of the dancers.

Christmas is coming, and North Woodstock is full of lights and other decorations. I am going Christmas shopping in Auburn with my Aunt Louise this Saturday. Last weekend, my brother Jason and I went to Rumford; he found lots of gifts, I found one.

The Silvers attended the Sesame Street show in Portland recently. Both Joelle and Errol had a wonderful time.

Kara Jacques, Ashley Miller, and Adam Miller took part in the annual Woodstock School Christmas concert on Tuesday. Bridget Billings attended the program and enjoyed it very much.

If anyone has Christmas news they would like to have printed, feel free to call me. As this happy holiday season comes upon us, everyone should take the opportunity to be thankful for their friends and families. Those who do not have relatives nearby should receive special attention from their friends in order to make their season bright. I hope everyone has a healthy and happy December!

Those having perfect attendance at Woodstock Middle School this quarter were Kara Thurlow, William Demarest, Randi Mack, Heather Demarest, Justin Kennison, Jennie Cox, Casey Ryerson, Bridget Gallagher, Jonathan Campbell and Crystal Cash. It's good to know there are so many from this area that take school seriously.

Sarah Hart made the honor roll at Oxford Hills High School this past quarter. Sarah was a student at Telstar until this year, her junior year in high school. Good work, Sarah.

I read in the "Advertiser" that Jamie Monzo was on the honor roll at Oxford Elementary School and is in the sixth grade. I was surprised to see she was that old.

Ricky Mack shot a 150 pound deer with a muzzle loader this past month. Ricky has now, during the past years, shot a deer with a rifle, bow and arrow and now a muzzle loader.

Barbara Cash had to go to the hospital for another procedure recently. I hope she is feeling better at this writing. Barbara is staying with her daughter Alicia Stevens.

Rosalie Poland took Claribel Poland shopping last Saturday in Norway.

Those celebrating birthdays in December I hadn't mentioned prior are Jymie Mack, Kenneth Poland, Tara Monzo and Erica Monzo. Hope you all have a happy day.

Rick Wing has been attending a meeting at Sunday River Ski Resort with Keiser Industries for a couple of days. Rick is production manager at Keiser's and has worked there for many years.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that he has obtained several large books put out by "Reader's Digest" and some by "National Geographic." Both produced a few good volumes. Mr. Billings also adds that the society tries to make all our lives a little better. You can gain much from its activities, so take an interest in the organization and lend it your support.

The society highlights important features of our community and area. Troy Wing, son of Gary and Jeanine Wing, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Troy is a 1992 graduate of Telstar High School. Friday and brought me a wreath with a rose made out of an apple. Very nice. The apples that are made into roses are very popular this year and very different. She obtained it from Enchanted Florist in West Paris.

On my travels to Lewiston this week I stopped by the ASCS office (now Federal Service Agency), to visit with Jane Clarke and Mike Tardy. I hadn't done this since I got done work for the South Paris office and really enjoyed the visit with former co-workers.

Thursday night Pete, Laurene and Danni Appleby stopped by for a visit. We always enjoy their company. Wish they would stop by more often.

The Ladies' Aid met to discuss plans for the Christmas celebration. It was decided to hold the program on Dec. 19, at the Building, followed by a luncheon and gift giving. Terri Beauchene offered to buy the gifts, paid for in part by the Jenkins Fund, with the Ladies' Aid contributing enough to give each child a $15 gift. Simone Lavallec is in charge of senior citizen baskets. Ellie Lecomte offered to purchase the fruit. Laurie Brown is in charge of the program. Arline Bernier agreed to make stockings and will welcome all contributions for same. Each one will bring goodies for the lunch, with the organization supplying punch ingredients.

The selectmen met with the road commissioner to work out an emergency plan to keep roads passable following the crisis of the town truck burning up. They had invited the school board members, but only one came, and she, not being the chairman, could not answer some of the questions the selectmen wished to have answered.

Thursday, Dec. 1, there was a church meeting at the Parsonage with representatives from the area churches present. There were 13 people present. Introductions were made and discussion was held concerning the little old rural churches. All the small churches are feeling the crunch and need to get the community into activities and money-making fun projects. Saturday, there was another meeting at the church, and three people from the UCC were there to answer questions and to talk about the grant for which the church had applied.

Saturday, the New Suncook School held their annual children's Christmas Fair, which Molly and Matthew Nelson attended. This is for the children to go in and buy presents for a small amount for their parents, brothers and sisters, etc., and no adults were allowed in the room. One item was little boxes which were made completely out of recycled Christmas cards. What a neat idea! One has to cut them and fold them just right. Across the hall was a bake sale and coffee and hot chocolate served. Another item was little homemade magnets for the refrigerator. What a fun time they had! They came out of the room with big smiles on their faces and their little bags full of gifts to give.

Saturday, Carolyn and Walter Heino went to Boston on business.

Sunday, Frances Grant and Eleanor Nelson went to the cemetery in Gilead to put pretty red flowers and greens on their aunt's grave.

Gertrude Hammon has sold some of her real estate in Albany to Carleton Field of South Paris. I believe he is logging on it.

Wednesday, Mary Grover and Betty Larsen hosted the dinner for The Friendly Senior Citizens, with about 27 people served. Baked ham, peas and carrots, etc., and birthday cake were served. The entertainment was Christmas carols. I believe omitted from Thanksgiving guests in another column were guests of Ed and Lois Niemi: Violet Doughty of Norway; Tim, Diane Mowatt and daughter Angela of Windham; Donna Niemi and sons James and Ryan Cote of Portland; and Laurie Lewis of Portland.

Good news -- Schwan's ice cream plant has reopened so now we can buy ice cream from the truck that comes through town. It was closed on account of a salmonella outbreak, but this has all been cleared up. They have a truck that comes right to the door every other week with all kinds of frozen goods. Their frozen bags of fruit are especially good.

Don't forget -- Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War Tent No. 19 -- the supper, meeting and Christmas party at the Chef's Table at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 14. If other tent members would like to join us, they are more than welcome. Just bring an exchange gift and something to go in the Togus Hospital box.

The Stoneham supper and Christmas tree for the community will be held at the Stoneham Church and vestry on Thursday, Dec. 15. It will be potluck and starts at 5 p.m. Please bring your own place settings. This is a fun time and will see you there.

cards and were very pleased with all the good wishes.

Prior to the anniversary party they had a Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings with the following family members present: the host and hostess, Frank and Mary Perham, Dana Morgan, Tricia Perham, Pam Perham, Paul Perham, Patti Auge, Pat and Charlie Verrill, Betty and Dell Hayes, Jane Perham, and Nestor and Katie Tamminen.

On Sunday, Dec. 4, there was an unusual event at the farm. Fay prepared the usual dinner for a large gathering, but when it came time to eat she was alone. She sat down to the table all by herself. But in a short time David and Ann came. Her husband was at work and I was unable to go out. That seldom happens.

Rena Curtis visited her son Ray and wife in Norway on Sunday. Her friends, Don and Carla, also joined them for dinner.

Not many of us like the thought of winter and snow, but the blue jays do. He gives his harsh, nasal "jaay, jaay," an overbearing manner, and a shrewd, wise approach to all of nature. Although his character may not always please us, we are attracted by his bright costume, his active movements, and his loud voice.

He looks colorful and fresh. The row of white buttons down his gray body are a brilliant shade of blue. The black strap which seems to hold his crest in place adds a jaunty appearance.

Long has he been called the Planter of oak forests. He hides acorns in various places, often forgetting where he has hidden them. Others are dropped from his bill in flight, and he does not retrieve them.

He announces to the world that where there is wine and sparkle in the air, it is joy to be alive.

Happy Birthday to Nancy Wight and all those born during this time. "A little older, a little wiser, hope each new day brings special pleasures, happy times, and all your favorite things."

Services were held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning at 9 a.m., Dec. 4, with Pastor Rodney Hamscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "The Prophecy Fulfilled," from Scriptures St. Luke 1:57-80, "His name is John and his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Spirit and prophesied saying: Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he hath visited and redeemed his people."

The Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club held their yearly Xmas Party meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 6, at the Town Building with a potluck supper followed by business. President Owen Wight opened the meeting; Secretary Don Gray read the notes of the last meeting; Leon Dunn brought the finances up to date; and Don Gray, safety director, said "No accidents," etc. There will be a new trail map available soon, also new patches. A very "short mention" of the new club house, to hopefully be built in the future, was held. The meeting adjourned and gifts were passed around. The next meeting will be Jan. 3 at 7 p.m.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Sylvia Wight and Olive Anderson, of the "Newry Bowling Gang," were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. Betsy was high on both the triples and singles with two strings of 106 and 101. Karlene was close with one string of 101 on the singles. Betsy had seven spares, Karlene had two spares, Gil had two spares and Olive had one spare.

The Newry Town Office was the scene of the postmaster's installation ceremony for Crystal A. Lake, the new certified postmaster for the Town of Newry. There was a good crowd to welcome her. Michael F. O'Leary, the manager of Post Office Operations, welcomed everyone. The Pledge of Allegiance was said and a prayer offered by Pastor Robert Rainville of the Praise Assembly of God Church. The keynote speaker was Rene N. Albert Jr., manager of Post Office Operations. The swearing-in and presentation of the commission was done by Mr. Albert, and a few remarks were given by the newly appointed postmaster. Benediction and thank-yous closed the ceremony. Refreshments were enjoyed after, with a lot of conversation all around.

Howdy, folks! Today we woke up to find more snow on the ground and this morning, Dec. 5, the temperature is 40 degrees and rain is on its way, according to the weather gal. What a great fall we have had.

Peggy did finally go to bed Monday to do her card work at her home and Drug Store in South Paris when she returned home.

After the snow melted, we got enough rain to soften the snow well and then it came colder so that it froze some. It was frozen real hard Tuesday morning, but it did warm up during the day. Peggy went to Bridgeton to do her card work in the forenoon. She got back home in time to have lunch with me.

Tuesday afternoon, Peggy drove me down street for an appointment with the good doctor, Dr. McNeena. Peggy's grandmother, Sarahtha Murch, is an active girl these days.

It was a good day to be out on Wednesday. Peggy worked in the forenoon and then she could be interrupted whenever. Then we took the car and drove down and spent some time with Mary Smith over on Route 20. Mary's husband was to be on Thursday, and Peggy had lots planned for that day. We celebrated her birthday a few days. After having a good time, Peggy and I visited at the home of Mrs. Mary Smith. Mary's husband, who had been in the hospital, was home and was doing well.

After we had a good time, Peggy and I went to the home of Mrs. Mary Smith. Mary's husband, who had been in the hospital, was home and was doing well. We had a good time and then we went to the home of Mrs. Mary Smith. Mary's husband, who had been in the hospital, was home and was doing well.

Wednesday morning was Peggy's day to do some baking, and among other things to make pies to take to the West Paris Grange dance to help the students. When she was baking, I hauled a load of sand from the gravel pit to finish filling the driveway in front of our home. I worked out in the shop some in the afternoon, but came in early to help the Lawrence's Welk Show. I helped with the part of the show, but didn't see for me part done by the fund raising crew. However, I suppose it was just a lot to run these sales and somebody has to pay for it. There are so many organizations for the money that a person just can't follow the line somewhere.

A HISTORIC PLACE--The Foster family farm in Newry has been entered in the National Register of Historic Places, according to Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr. director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission. The designation indicates that the property has been documented, evaluated and considered worthy of preservation and protection as part of the nation's cultural heritage. The Foster farm consists of a Greek Revival style dwelling and a detached barn and stable set amidst open meadows, which make up a portion of the 255-acre property. There is also a small cemetery to the south of the house which contains the graves of family members who occupied the farm. The farm on the Sunday River Road is believed to have been initially settled by Joel Foster during the first quarter of the nineteenth century. The farm is still held by a descendant and used on a seasonal basis. The property was eligible for nomination to the register for the manner in which it represents a typical nineteenth century Newry farm, and for the architectural significance of its buildings. Afternoon. I had a 3 p.m. appointment to have X-rays of my hip and knee, so I left early as I had expected. I wanted to do before I went to the X-rays. I went for the X-rays and returned home to find Peggy already here, which surprised me, as I thought that I'd get home first.

they had just about the right amount for good dancing.

One thing that we did yesterday forenoon was to get a cord strung out and protected some from the elements so that Peggy can plug her car heater into to help it to start easier when it gets colder. She had a block-type heater installed on the motor of her car so that it would start easier.

Yesterday afternoon, we spent some time visiting the Emerson Merrill family in West Bethel. Peggy had some birthday presents to take up for the great-granddaughter, Kayla Merrill, and thought it was a good time to do it.

We visited with them for a while, but then left as they were taking Alfred and Margaret Merrill for a ride to Berlin, N.H., and to dinner at the Northlands Restaurant. It was a beautiful day and a good time for them to go. We were invited to go along but decided against it, as we had eaten a good dinner before going to West Bethel. If we had been hungry, dinner at the Northlands Restaurant would certainly have been a real treat.

Well, folks, as far as I now know my only appointment this week is for a blood test on Thursday. I expect to still be getting around when next Monday arrives and will fill you in with more of our doings then.

Marsha Baxter of Oxford was a visitor at the Lovejoys one day last week.

As far as I now know, there will be a dance at the West Paris Grange Hall on Dec. 17, with the Richard Felt Orchestra furnishing the music. This dance will be held to benefit the Sportsman's Club, which is a very worthwhile organization. They help a lot of people with the money that they earn.

There will not be a dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Dec. 24, since it is Christmas Eve, but there will be a New Year's dance there.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Friends, as I write this, the sun is shining brightly through some dark gray clouds. At the same time the wind is rustling and moving about amongst the last of some yellow leaves on a tree. The day is rather bleak -- that is in its appearance. Yet, the day is balmy and pleasantly mild. And, the air has a refreshing and healthy fresh smell. Thus, I would venture to say there is a mixture of elements present today -- sort of like life at times.

The sun's rays shining through the clouds -- at times so brightly, at times hidden behind a covering -- reminds me of how some people sort of feel the mysterious presence of The Holy One -- God, Yehweh, the Almighty -- who is always with us. Nonetheless, now and then, when life's burdens become heavy, some might not seem to be able to feel or allow The Holy One's presence into their lives. However and beyond a person's feeling at the time, God is there with him or her.

God's spirit, love, compassion...faithfully flows through in surprising and mysterious and wonderful ways. Those ways may even shine through in an unexpected caring visit; a renewing, refreshing pause/nap; a comforting thought in a poem; an ordinary, exciting discovery, like a cardinal at the birdfeeder; a comforting, peaceful feeling brought forth through prayer; and the awakening to the many wonders around us.

As we journey, God's steadfast presence is with us. Thanks be!

Telstar fire under investigation

By WENDY HANSCOM

A small fire last week in a second-floor student locker at Telstar High School is under investigation by police.

Wednesday, just after buses had left for the day, Telstar Principal Theodore Davis smelled something burning on the second floor, according to SAD44 superintendent Ronald Jenkins.

Davis was unable to locate the source of the odor and pulled the fire alarm to evacuate the building, Jenkins said.

Davis and other school officials searched the area where the smell was most noticeable for a few minutes, Jenkins said, but when the fire wasn't located immediately the Bethel Fire Department was called.

"We didn't feel in any great danger," Jenkins said, "but we didn't want to take any risks."

Before firefighters arrived, Telstar staff continued to open lockers until they came upon a pile of smoldering papers in one locker. Telstar staff then extinguished the small fire.

"The fire was set," Jenkins said last week. "Mr. Davis and Mr. (Carroll) Higgins have been investigating it. We've interviewed one suspect and we think we know what happened, but we can't prove anything now."

If found, the student who set the fire would "very likely" be suspended, Jenkins said, and depending on the circumstances, could face a harsher penalty, including expulsion.

Any long-term suspension or expulsion would go before the district's Board of Directors.

Jenkins said Tuesday that school officials have turned over a list of suspects to the Bethel Police, who will continue the investigation.

News from

Evans Notch Ranger Station, W.M.N.F.

Jim Dimaio, district ranger of the Pemigewasset Ranger District, announced that the Westside Winter Sports Concession permit has been awarded to Dennis Juniper of Campton, N.H. Mr. Juniper will operate and maintain facilities and trails at the Lincoln Woods Visitor Center and Hancock Campground located along the Kancamagus Highway in Lincoln, N.H. The recreational facilities will remain under concession from Dec. 5, 1994, to March 30, 1995.

The Lincoln Woods Visitor Center and trail system has become a high-use winter sports recreation area. On average 400 skiers and hikers per day use the facilities during weekends and holidays. Visitors enjoy the rustic appearance of the cozy log cabin, the serenity of skiing and hiking on the trails, and wildlife in the area. Hancock Campground offers alpine and nordic skiers and hikers excellent winter camping opportunities.

Campground sites also accommodate RVs. The campground is located in close proximity to the town of Lincoln, N.H., Loon Mountain Ski Area, and the Lincoln Woods trail system providing easy access to weekend skiers and hikers.

"The purpose of this concession," said Dimaio, "will be to shift the operation and maintenance costs from the government to the users of the facilities." The Westside Winter Sports Concession will continue to provide a wide array of recreational opportunities and maintain the high level of customer service local visitors and vacationers have come to expect from the White Mountain National Forest. Juniper's operation and his staff will provide the following services: plowing, shoveling, clearing blow-downs from trails, packing trails after a six-inch-plus snowfall, staffing the information desk, cleaning restrooms, and heating the Visitor Center.

The Westside Winter Sports Concession is a demonstration of the White Mountain National Forest's commitment to serve the needs of visitors through an affordable user fee system. The recreation area will be maintained and operated for winter vacationers, campers, and winter sports enthusiasts in a manner which is consistent with the philosophy of the forest.

The following fee schedule will be in place during the 1994-1995 operating season. Fee collection will be conducted by staffed and self-service systems.

Fees: Hancock Campground: nightly fee $10; Lincoln Woods Trailhead: visitor parking (15-minute parking available for use of restrooms and visitor center), daily parking fee, $5; weekly parking fee, $15; season parking permit, $30 (these permits may be ordered in advance at 603-726-8805, or purchased on site).

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

College courses in Bethel will begin in January with a full menu of University of Maine courses and a course in college writing offered by Central Maine Technical College, according to Cathy Newell, director of Adult Education for the Telstar Region. New this semester is the availability of scholarship assistance for the CMTC course for new students.

The University of Maine's Interactive Television courses will begin during the week of Jan. 17, with 61 courses available at the Telstar High School TTV site. The university courses include many offerings in liberal arts, business, criminal justice, education, and counseling. The courses originate on one of the University of Maine campuses and are broadcast live to more than 70 locations throughout the state. Students at the sites communicate with the live class via phone lines. All classes are taped for make-up or review. Tuition is between $80 and $85 per credit hour, and most courses are three-credit. The system offers a variety of new technologies for students, including computer-based library services, electronic mail, telephone conferencing, and academic support. Complete course guides are available at the Adult Education office at Telstar. For registration, students should call the Rumford/Mexico Center at 1-800-696-1103.

The Bethel site is amongst the most active in the state, with nearly 90 enrollments for the fall term. The staff, including Newell, Lin Chapman and work-study students Darleen Morin and Charlene Cash, are looking forward to an exciting spring semester. Anyone with questions is invited to stop by, or to call 824-2780.

The college writing course offered by Central Maine Technical College will meet on Thursday evenings, starting Jan. 19, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Adult Learning Center on Philbrook Street in Bethel. Jeanette Baldrige is the instructor for this class. The class will include instruction and practice in writing expository prose with clear arguments. Emphasis is on the writing process, revision and editing skills. Students are introduced to library research techniques and learn to use the Modern Languages Association citation style to document sources.

The course fee is $199. There are several $150 scholarships available to new students. To apply for the scholarships, which will be awarded on a first come-first served basis, contact Cathy Newell at the Adult Education office, 824-2780. Basketball

Jay 87, Telstar 72

The Telstar High School boys' basketball team lost its season opener 87-72 to Jay on Monday, Dec. 5.

The Rebels were led by Todd Wing with 24 points, 7 assists and 9 rebounds. Caesar Morgan dumped in 13 points for Telstar.

"It was a more exciting game than the score looks," said Mark Thurlow, Telstar's coach. "We were within five points a couple of times. Caesar Morgan got in foul trouble in the third quarter and had to come out for a while. We scored five points in the last minute of the game. I thought it was a good showing against a team that's supposed to be second or third in the league. I was really encouraged and I think the kids were too. We made a lot of mistakes and still stayed in the game."

Valley 57, Gould 50

Gould Academy's boys' basketball team lost Saturday, Dec. 3, 57-50 to Valley. Lanny Popoola was the Huskies' high scorer with 15 points. Ian Cleary had 13 and Toji Perlman 11.

Valley 102, Gould 16

The Gould Academy girls' basketball team lost 102 to 16 Saturday, Dec. 5, to Valley High School. Mel Johansen scored all 16 of the Huskie points.

TMS 30, Mt. Valley 12

The Telstar Middle School varsity team rolled over Mt. Valley Monday, beating the Hawks 30-12.

Rebel point scorers were: Erin Osgood, 8; Jen Walker, 4; Naomi Sanford, 4; Emily Phillips, 4 and with two points each Brandy Poland, Staci Littlehale, Mandy Berry, Casey Brown and Toni Vacca. Osgood logged 5 rebounds and Heather Best had 4 steals.

Telstar 63, Livermore 54

The Telstar High School boys' basketball team advanced their record to 2-1 Monday evening with a 63-54 win over Livermore Falls.

Todd Wing was High Scorer with 22 points. Caesar Morgan racked up 15. Keith Stevens twisted his ankle and will miss the next few games.

Coach Mark Thurlow called the injury "a big loss for us."

Telstar plays Carrabec at home Thursday, Dec. 15. JV play begins at 5:30, followed by the varsity game at about 7 p.m.

NYA 51, Gould 4

The Gould Academy girls' basketball team lost 51-4 to North Yarmouth Academy Saturday, Dec. 10. The girls next game is Friday, Dec. 16 at Rangeley.

NYA 72, Gould 43

Gould Academy's men lost 72-43 Saturday, Dec. 10 to north Yarmouth Academy. Ian Cleary was high scorer with 17 points and nine rebounds. Lanny Popoola pitched in 12 points and snagged seven rebounds. The men are scheduled to play at North Yarmouth Academy Saturday, Dec. 16.

Winthrop 69, Telstar 25

The Telstar High School girls' basketball team lost 69-25 to Winthrop on Friday, Dec. 9. Beth Howe led the Rebel offense with eight points. Telstar's record stands at 0-2. The girls play Jay at home Friday beginning with the JV game at 5:30 p.m.

Telstar 84, Lisbon 61

Todd Wing scored a game-high 27 points to lead Telstar High School to an 84-61 win over Lisbon in a boys' Mountain Valley Conference game Thursday, Dec. 8. Caesar Morgan dumped 19 points for the Rebels. Cory Koch logged 10 assists and Robert Cuff grabbed six rebounds.

Sponsored by the National Honor Society of Telstar, with Joanne Chase as adviser, the dinner featured food that was donated by area individuals, service organizations, businesses and school personnel in SAD44, and the SAD44 School Board.

Special thanks go to the Jackson-Silver Post No. 68 American Legion for donating and cooking all of the turkey and stuffing; to the Gould Academy National Honor Society, Steve Sanborn, adviser, for donating all the pies and for helping with preparations and serving; and to Nancy Grover for donating all of the rolls, making the gravy, and creating the programs.

The National Honor Society at Telstar spent several months preparing for this event, and their hard work made the day a huge success. The N.H.S. members are: Amy Howe, president; Lori Davis, secretary; Laura Seames, treasurer; Elise Bennett, Tim Remington, Lloyd Sweetser, Esther Morin, Joel Riley, Lisa Haines, Kevin Mullen, Becky Chandler, Justin Hutchins, Ben Fogg, Ian Richardson and Lydia Grover, members.

YMCA QUILT RAFFLE

The Oxford Hills YMCA board of directors is selling raffle tickets for a double bed quilt, created by Donna McCarraher of Harrison, to raise money for scholarships and sports and crafts equipment for their children's programs.

The quilt is a "Split Rail Fence" pattern in shades of blue, rose and white. McCarraher, in charge of production at the Perfect Stitch in South Paris and a local quilting teacher, is a longtime supporter of the YMCA.

The quilt is currently on display at Hair Biz in the Oxford Mini-Mall. Tickets are only $1 donation or six for $5. The drawing is Dec. 16 and the winner need not be present to win. The YMCA will send the quilt anywhere in the world in time for Christmas. Call the Y at 743-7184 for tickets or contact any Y board member.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The annual Christmas luncheon and exchange of gifts was held on Friday, Dec. 2, at the church dining room. President Virginia Keniston opened the meeting with a short reading, followed by the secretary and treasurer's reports. Ninety-six sick calls were reported and a collection of $9.16 was taken.

Betty Blake reported total proceeds from the Friday Gift Shop and the fall sale. The nominating committee announced the slate of officers for 1995: president, Virginia Keniston; vice president, Rose Dyer; secretary-treasurer, Musa Brown. Plans were discussed for the filling and delivery of Christmas baskets and a collection was received to help defray expenses. Volunteers included Verna Dyke, who would see about apples; Ethel Ward, Merlie Butters and Edna York, baking cookies; Musa Brown to make jam and the baskets made by Sarah Stevens. On Dec. 6, 26 baskets were prepared and delivered by Ginny Keniston, Rose Dyer and Becky Shaw.

The president announced that 1995 programs would soon be completed and suggested that the prayer line be revamped to make it more usable. Members were reminded of community activities planned for Dec. 3, which included the parade. The membership voted to donate an additional $1,000 to the church to be used for office equipment. Following the luncheon and meeting, Christmas gifts were exchanged. The next meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, Jan. 5, 1995.

STATE PARK GIFTS

Maine state park passes for the 1995 season, gift certificates for camping and conservation (loon) license plates, and loon T-shirts and hats are now available for purchase as Christmas gifts according to Herb Hartman, director of the Maine Department of Conservation's Bureau of Parks and Recreation.

"State park season passes permit unlimited picnicking, swimming, hiking and other outdoor activities at more than 30 Maine state parks and historic sites," Hartman said.

1995 season passes may be ordered by mailing a check payable to the Treasurer, State of Maine, to the Maine Bureau of Parks and Recreation, Station 22, Augusta, Me., 04333.

"Be sure to include the name and address of the person for whom the pass is intended so we can send the recipient a note indicating who the giver is, as well as a list of Maine state parks and historic sites," Hartman said.

Family season passes, allowing all the occupants of the vehicle day use, cost $40; individual season passes good for day use for the pass holder only cost $20. Day use fees at Maine state parks and historic sites in 1994 ranged from $1 to $2.50 per adult and $.50 for children.

For residents 65 or older, a free, lifetime, day use pass to all of the bureau's state parks and historic sites is available upon presentation of identification showing date of birth at the bureau's Augusta office.

T-shirts, hats and loon plate gift certificates may be obtained weekdays at the bureau's Augusta office in the Harlow Building on the grounds of the Augusta Mental Health Institute, Hospital Street, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Loon T-shirts and hats are also available for purchase at the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife on State Street in Augusta, near State Street Cinema. Loon plate gift certificates are good for new plates or a renewal. Additional information may be obtained by calling the bureau at 287-3821.

Military briefs

Troy E. Wing has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force base in San Antonio, Texas.

The summer curriculum consisted of orientation on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training were also emphasized.

Wing is a student at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt. He is the son of Gary E. and Jeannine H. Wing of Bryant Pond, and a 1992 graduate of Teistar High School.

TIS THE SEASON--150 guests turned up Saturday to celebrate the holiday season and the completion of the barn at Philbrook Place on lower Main Street in Bethel. Developer Patricia Thurston said she is currently seeking tenants for the unique main-floor-and-loft space. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Christmas cantata

On Sunday, Dec. 18, the Bethel Church of the Nazarene will begin its celebration of the Christmas season with a public presentation of "The Spirit of Christmas," a Christmas Cantata written and directed by the Rev. Debbie Grant. The cantata will be performed during the 6 p.m. service (or immediately following the Living Nativity, if the Nativity runs past that time). The public is invited to attend, and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the presentation.

"The people of the church would like to share their Christmas joy with the community and this performance should prove to be enjoyable for everyone," said Pastor John Grant.

The church is located at the intersection of Church and Park streets, one block from the Bethel Common where the Living Nativity will take place.

For further information, persons may phone Pastor Grant at 824-3766.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest members: Print Source, Betty Bailey, owner, soon to open in Locke Mills Village; The Coverdale House, Don and Janet Coverdale, owners, on Vernon Street, Bethel; and U.S. Cellular, Mark Thomas, representative.

The chamber wishes to thank Fuzzy and Cherie Thurston, Jack Cronin and the Sudbury Inn staff for hosting a wonderful Christmas party.

The Country Christmas in Bethel celebration was an incredible success. Many thanks go to several people for their efforts in planning and working on the day's events.

Hats off to Barb Testani, Ginny Walker, Litty Parker, Tim Hutchins, Lucia Schwartz and the Bethel Garden Club, Nancy Harrison, Kevin Finley, Mike Testani, Hugette and Punky Davis, Dan Goldsmith, Marna and Jim McGinniss, Joe Cardello, Carolee Roberts, our much loved Santa, Bub Wight, Preb's Pharmacy, Maine Line Products, Neta Littlefield, the Mahosuc Music Makers, Gene Allen (from the Bethel Police Department), the Bethel Brownie and Cub Scout Troops and Troy Jordan.

Thanks also go out to the 12 generous restaurants that participated in the very successful Taste of Bethel.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Three Christmas trees were lit on the grounds of the Jackson-Silver Post on Dec. 1.

These were trees which the Auxiliary had purchased and planted; two in 1993 were in honor of Fannie Cummings and in memory of Rena Howe, the two Past Department Presidents from this Unit.

The other tree was planted last May in honor of Vera Cross, who has been such an active member since right after WW II. Poppy chairman for over 40 years, and treasurer for many years.

Last year, the auxiliary started a project to sell bulbs for lights on the trees at Christmas time, with the proceeds used to purchased gifts for the veterans who are at Ledgeview Nursing Home and to donate to the Christmas gift shops at Togus and the Maine Veterans' Homes. They are repeating the project again this year.

Bulbs are purchased by groups or individuals, at $2 each, in honor of, or in memory of, a veteran.

This year, one tree is also for veterans' family members.

Bulbs may be added through the month until Christmas, and will remain lit until 4 p.m. Chaplain's Sunday in early February.

On Thursday, Vera Cross made the connection which lit her tree, after which Dept. Auxiliary Chaplain Helen Audet, a special guest for the evening, offered prayer.

The other two trees were lit by Fannie Cummings, and by Olive Risko in memory of her mother.

Special guests again offered the prayers.

They were the Reverends John Grant and Roland Lord, both having been Prisoners of War and both being members of Jackson-Silver Post.

Following the lighting, refreshments of Boston cream pie and beverage were served, after which the ladies had a meeting.

Another guest at the meeting was Department Public Relations Chairman Jeanette Holland.

The next meeting of Oxford County Council will be hosted by Foster-Carroll Post and Auxiliary, Church Street, South Paris, on Dec. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

EVANS NOTCH RANGER DISTRICT WHITE MOUNTAIN NATIONAL FOREST TOWN OF CHATHAM CARROLL COUNTY, NEW HAMPSHIRE

The White Mountain National Forest is beginning an environmental analysis for a proposed timber harvest in the vicinity of Langdon Brook, just west of Route 113B. Approximately 1.3 million board feet over 379 acres would be harvested using primarily single-tree and group selection harvest methods. Existing forest roads and log landings would be restored and used for this timber harvest. Major stream crossings will require bridge installations, and dual use of New Hampshire's Corridor 19 snowmobile trail is proposed. For more information please contact Wayne Millen, Evans Notch Ranger District, 18 Mayville Road, Bethel, Maine 04217 or call (207) 824-2134 (voice) or (207) 824-3312 (TTY).
